

Carolyn, the architect for The Pound, was delighted to join the board of Trustees on completion. She came to Cardiff to study architecture and stayed. She now lives in the house she designed for herself with husband Nic. With two grown up children living away from Cardiff, she is kept busy travelling to see the grandchildren as well as the residential design projects she undertakes as part of their architectural practice.